Faulkner Tries to Trip Witness

Who Declares That in His Efforts to Convict Clark of Bribery, He is Merely Serriving His Constituents in the State of Montana.

Washington, Jan. 11.—The senate committee on privileges and elections held only one session in its hearing in the Clark senatorial election case.

Ex-Senator Whiteside of Montana was the only witness. It was the fourth day of his examination. When the committee adjourned Mr. Faulkner announced that he had for the present concluded the cross-examination of Mr. Whiteside, but that he would ask for his recall later in order to propound certain questions which he was not yet ready to put, and upon which he would undertake to impeach his testimony.

Mr. Campbell, representing the anti-Clark position, also stated that he wished to ask a few more questions on recross examination, and on this account it is expected that Mr. Whiteside will be on the stand when the hearing is resumed.

Ex-Senator Faulkner's efforts were directed towards entangling Mr. Whiteside upon dates and exact statements made as to transactions in connection with Mr. Clark's election to the senate, and he went very fully into the alleged deposit of money with him (Mr. Whiteside) for himself and other state senators.

Mr. Faulkner brought out the fact that of the men to whom the witness knew of his own personal knowledge that money had been paid, only two had subsequently voted for Clark, and that there was no clear understanding as to the full transaction with those two.

Mr. Whiteside closed with the remark of his declaration that he believed himself to be serving the state of Montana in his present course and a review of the use of money in state affairs which had led him to it.

Chairman O'Brien Declares That All Irish Fights are Bogus.

New York, Jan. 11.—B. B. O'Brien, chairman of the Republican state committee, declared positively that the Boston boxing law must be repealed at once. "Have you become convinced that these so-called boxing bouts are bogus?" he asked. "No, they are bogus," he replied. "That is why I think the Boston law should be repealed. The fights are fixed beforehand and the spectators are humbugged. Take for instance the McEvoy-Dixon fight. I never saw such a farce. There was not a stage of the game at which the negro could not have gone in and finished his man. When I left the club I was satisfied that the Boston law should be repealed immediately."

National Miners.

Indianapolis, Jan. 11.—The credentials committee of the United Mine Workers reported satisfactory progress in the big task assigned to it. The members of the committee must pass on the credentials of about 700 delegates, who will begin to arrive in the city the latter part of the week and continue to come in until Monday, when the big convention opens. The legislation taken up by the national organization is not of a local character and affects all districts alike. The wage scale will be fixed for western Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois and Ohio. President Mitchell said: "It is impossible to calculate the result of a failure to agree on a scale for mining coal. The miners feel they have not been fairly treated in the matter of wages, and at this time a most determined stand will be made to secure what they feel entitled to. Think of the result following a failure like the one I speak of. It would mean more to the industries of this country than any similar movement ever heard of."

Bryan on Expansion.
Minneapolis, Jan. 11.—In an interview William J. Bryan said: "I am a firm believer in the enlargement and extension of the limits of the republic. I do not mean by that the extension by the addition of contiguous territory, nor to limit myself to that. Wherever there is a people intelligent enough to form a part of this republic it is my belief that they should be taken in. Wherever there is a people who are capable of having a voice and a representation in this government, there the limits of the republic may be extended. The Philippines are not such people. The Democratic party has ever favored the extension of the limits of this republic, but it has never advocated the acquisition of subject territory, to be held under colonial government."

Bushnell Welcomed Home.
Springfield, O., Jan. 11.—Former Governor Asa S. Bushnell was cordially welcomed by the people of Springfield on his return here to live, a public reception being given in his honor at the council chamber in the city building, followed by a banquet at the Arcade hotel. Among the guests at the banquet was Governor George K. Nash, who was met on his arrival here by a committee of prominent citizens.

A Judge Assassinated.
Florence, Ala., Jan. 11.—Judge W. B. McClure, judge of the probate court of Lauderdale county, was foully assassinated during the night. His body was found in the street, the rain beating upon the up-turned face of the dead man. Judge McClure had been ridiculed with buckshot. Bloodhounds have been asked for in a hope to ferret out the murderers.

Influenza Epidemic.
London, Jan. 11.—The epidemic of influenza is spreading throughout the whole country. The newspapers contain long lists of notable sufferers from the disease, and the death lists are abnormally long. The royal family at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, has not escaped. Many of its members have been removed to a sanitarium.

New Incorporations.
Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—Reliance Gauge Column company, Cleveland, $50,000; Cedarville Protective association, Cedarville; Prospect Street Presbyterian church, Ashtabula; Bill Board Publishing company, Cincinnati, $10,000; Ferguson Rubber Heel company, Columbus, $100,000.

Greene Eulogized.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Miscellaneous business of minor importance occupied the attention of the house until 1 p. m., when an hour was devoted to eulogies upon the life and public services of the late Representative Greene of Nevada. The house then adjourned until Friday.

A DOCTOR SUICIDES.

Prefers a Leap Into Unknown Rather Than Endure the Known.

Cerocke, Kas., Jan. 11.—Dr. L. J. Forney, a prominent physician, was found dead in his office. On a table were bottles of morphine, aconite and chloroform, and a note saying: "I had rather leap into the unknown than longer endure what I know."

Another Advance to Ironworkers.
Youngstown, O., Jan. 11.—The bi-monthly examination of reports of bar iron sales for November and December was completed by the officials of the Amalgamated Association of Steel and Iron workers, and resulted in an advance of 25 cents per ton for puddling, making the rate $5.75. The wages of finishers are also increased. This is an advance of nearly 44 per cent since April, 1899, and makes the highest wages paid iron workers since the boom of 1879-80.

No Revenue Stamps.
Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 11.—S. D. Willis, a government revenue officer, has discovered about $60,000 negotiated witness claims on file in the state auditor's office without war revenue stamps affixed. Officer Willis notified the attorney general that under the commissioner's ruling they were subject to stamp tax. They have been received from every county in Kentucky, and the violation has heretofore been overlooked by Kentucky revenue officers.

Caused a Wreck.
Hopkinsville, Ky., Jan. 11.—Steel rails laid across the track wrecked a passenger train on the Illinois Central near Hopkinsville. Price Gary was captured while skulking in the bushes near the road, and was identified as a negro who had one night before been put off the same train and had sworn vengeance. He refused to talk.

Tributes to Hobart.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Beautiful and impressive tributes were paid by the senate to the memory of the late Vice President Hobart. His intimate personal relations with many senators, and his close official affiliation with all of them, renders his death a distinct loss to every member of the body, as well as to the country. Early in the session Mr. Hale (Me) introduced a resolution of inquiry addressed to the department of state as to the seizure of American flour by the British, which aroused more than usual interest because of its attitude toward Great Britain. It was not acted upon.

BIG

Majority is Given

For the Rules to Govern Joint Assembly.

The Anti's Surprised.

They Expected the Vote to be Exceedingly Close.

Breckenridge Has Taken Command of the Anti-Goebel Forces. Legal Enanglements Which are Cropping Out.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 11.—The adoption in the house of the rules, which will govern the joint assembly, by a decisive majority, was a surprise as well as a disappointment to the Republican and anti-Goebel faction in the legislature. They had not expected to defeat the rules, but they confidently believed that the vote would be close. Ex-Congressman W. C. Breckenridge, who has practically assumed direction of the anti-Goebel Democratic forces, was in conference with Governor Bradley, Governor Taylor's attorney, a long time, and it is said they are preparing to spring legal objections to the manner in which Goebel's contest is being conducted, one of which is that the legislature should have first passed an act authorizing the contest. The list of witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the Franklin county grand jury included President Milton H. Smith and other officials of the Louisville & Nashville, Colonel Artilla Cox, John H. Whalen and others who have been identified with the John Brown Young Democratic party. It is understood that the investigation of the witnesses who testified related to the Whalen-Harrell bribery matter.

No Reply Received.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Up to the close of office hours the answer of the British government to Mr. Choate's representations as to the seizure of American flour and other goods had not been received at the state department. Nor has Mr. Choate yet indicated when an answer may be expected, and the state department, basing its judgment on the fact that it is still at the ambassador's request collecting and transmitting to him information relative to the character of the goods, needed for the full presentation of the case, scarcely expects an immediate answer. It would, of course, be gratified on an early response, but the feeling is that anything returned at this moment must be a partial answer.

Testimony of Miss Miller.
New York, Dec. 11.—In the trial of Roland B. Molinoux for the murder of Katherine J. Adams, the most important witness was Miss Emma E. Miller, a clerk in Hartleigan's store, Newark, N. J. She testified that on Dec. 21, 1898, she sold a silver bottle-holder to a man. She identified the holder sent to Cornish, which contained a bottle of poison, as the one she sold on Dec. 21. The direct examination of Miss Miller was brief and she was turned over to Mr. Weeks, counsel for the defendant. On cross-examination the witness testified that Molinoux did not buy the holder of her, but she would not be able to identify the purchaser now.

Death of Lady Montagu.
London, Jan. 11.—Lady Alice Montagu, who died at Dares-Platz, was one of the twin daughters of the Duchess of Manchester, formerly Miss Consuelo Yznaga of New York. Lady Alice's sister was a victim of consumption, following an attack of influenza, and was taken from England a few weeks ago to Dares-Platz, in the hope of prolonging her life. She was 20 years old.

Threats of Lynching.
Cleveland, Jan. 11.—A streetcar of the Big Consolidated company struck and badly injured Edward Addis, a farmer. A crowd of several hundred people gathered and threats were made of lynching the crew of the car. A number of men attempted to drag the conductor and motorman to the street, but they were held at bay with revolvers. Policemen dispersed the crowd.

Sudden Death.
Middlesboro, Ky., Jan. 11.—Philip C. Swats, proprietor of the Reliance Coal and Coke Co., and one of the largest coal operators in this section, died suddenly of heart disease.

After the Goebel Law.
Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 11.—In the senate Burnham (R.) introduced a bill to repeal the Goebel election law, and substitute the former election law, which placed the election machinery in the hands of the county judges.

OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Two-Cent Fare Bill Among the New Measures Introduced.

Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—Among the bills introduced in the house was a 2-cent railroad fare bill; also a bill to protect landlords from "deadbeats" by permitting the former to keep the baggage of the latter 60 days and then sell it; requiring public franchises to be submitted to a vote of the people for approval; requiring outside fraternal societies to deposit $50,000 with the state treasurer for protection of Ohio members.

Many petitions asking for a law to prohibit the manufacture and sale of cigarettes were presented. In the senate a bill was introduced providing for the appointment of six members to locate the position of Ohio troops at the siege of Vicksburg, and appropriating $2,000 for expenses. A house bill authorizing Portsmouth to issue $20,000 in bonds for sewer purposes was passed.

Gage's Hard Lot.
Toledo, O., Jan. 11.—William W. Gage, a cousin of the secretary of the treasury, penniless and depending upon charity for medical attendance, is dying at a boarding house here. He is a widower, and lost off of his property during the Civil war while he was living in the south. He was for a time a prisoner of the Confederacy. A number of years ago he came to Toledo, and has been a real estate broker. Three months ago he became ill, and his money was soon exhausted. His landlord has been providing for him, and notified Secretary Gage of his condition. The dying man's only son went to the Klondike three years ago and has not been heard of since.

Memorial Building Dedicated.
Tuskegee, Ala., Jan. 11.—The Slater-Armstrong memorial trustees' building at the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial institute was dedicated. The building is a memorial of John J. Slater, who gave $1,000,000 to constitute the Slater fund, and of General Armstrong, the founder of Hampton institute, from which Booker T. Washington graduated. The total cost of the building, aside from its equipment, is $35,000. The 1,000,000 bricks and the lumber used in construction were made by the students; in fact, the building throughout is a product of student labor.

Indicted For Coercion.
Toledo, O., Jan. 11.—The grand jury returned an indictment against Leonard Bateman, manager of the Toledo Globe, for violation of the Ohio coercion law. Bateman discharged an employee named A. B. Cole because of his affiliation with a bicycle workers' union. The penalty upon conviction is $500 fine or six months imprisonment, or both. This is the first indictment ever returned in the state under the statute. The defense will be an attack upon the constitutionality of the law.

Brothers of Murderers Lynched.
Brownsville, Tenn., Jan. 11.—Additional details of the double lynching near Ripley show that Rube and Frank Givney, brothers of the man charged with the murder of Peace Officers Will Turner and Albert Durham, were hanged by a mob. They were charged with being implicated in the murder. Henry and Roger Givney, charged as the main participants in the double crime, are now being pursued by a mob of 600 people, and another double lynching is expected.

McGivern Obequies.
New York, Jan. 11.—The funeral of Dr. Edward McGivern was held in St. Mary's church, which was crowded to the doors. The services were presided over by Archbishop Corrigan, head of the diocese of New York. Occupying seats in the church were all the Protestant clergymen of the city, who had been specially invited to attend the services. The city officials were also present.

Milked Both Ways.
Mason, Mich., Jan. 11.—James H. Brown of Battle Creek, president of the Live Stock Sanitary commission, was arraigned in court upon an indictment brought by the grand jury at Lansing. He pleaded not guilty and gave bail in the sum of $3,000. His indictment alleges that he charged the state for official services while also charging private parties for the same service.

Goldsmith Pleads Guilty.
New York, Jan. 11.—Louis E. Goldsmith, assistant cashier of the Port Jervis National bank, accused of having embezzled funds of the bank to the amount of $54,000 and of having falsified the books of the institution, pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

Disastrous Fire.
Oxford, Miss., Jan. 11.—News has reached here of a disastrous fire at Taylor, 10 miles south of here, on the Illinois Central railroad. The flames swept away every store in the little town, destroying 17 houses. There is no communication with Taylor, and details of the conflagration are not given. The total loss is believed to be about $140,000, with small insurance.

Gambling Barred.
Columbus, O., Jan. 11.—As a result of police orders, it is announced that the proprietors of gambling places, as well as of the pool room, will close.

JURY

Acquits the Actress of the Charge of Murder.

Dramatic Scene at the Trial.

The Defendant Makes a Touching Reference to the Weeping Sister of the Murdered Actor. The Verdict was Cheered.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 11.—The verdict of acquittal in the James-Leidenheimer case was wildly cheered. Miss Morrison, upon hearing the words which insured her freedom, advanced to the speaker's platform and made a most dramatic speech to the court and jury. She said:

"I wish to thank you and the gentlemen of the jury, and all who were instrumental in my acquittal, for your just and generous decision. May God in His mercy be ever as just to you and yours as you have been to me today. As for the prosecution, I wish to say that I fully forgive them and bear them no malice for their strenuous efforts for my conviction."

"As to my persecutors," she continued, turning towards Mrs. George J. Antz, the beautiful sister of the murdered actor, who was overcome with emotion and suffused in tears. "I leave them to the consciences and their God. To the poor bereaved sister I say that God knows that were it in my power to restore her brother to her I would certainly do it."

When Miss Morrison had finished her speech, which she had rendered in a dramatic style, Attorney General Donaldson made a demand that she be held for carrying a pistol, and the case was entered but no bail or other formal recognition was accorded the action.

The verdict was wildly cheered by the spectators in the court room and by hundreds outside. Miss Morrison will remain in Chattanooga for several weeks, after which she will begin a lecture tour, her subject being, "The Other side of the Stage," in which she will point out the dangers that confront the young girls who follow the stage as an occupation.

Filipino Force Bound.
Manila, Jan. 11.—Reports from the movements of the American commanders south of Manila show that General Dares and General Wheaton are at Perez Das Marinas, and General Schwan at Silang, all awaiting the arrival of provision wagons. Reconnaissance have shown that 2,000 armed insurgents have retired to the mountains from the district between Indang and Maig, and that others have retreated along the coast from Novleta toward Batangas. Nolan's squadron of the Eleventh cavalry drove a body of insurgents from Maig. One American was killed and two wounded. Thirteen dead Filipinos were found.

In Danger of Defeat.
Washington, Jan. 11.—Private reports that reach the diplomatic circle here from Paris indicate that the reciprocity treaty between the United States and France is in a hazardous position, with more than a possibility of a defeat when it comes to the final vote in the French chambers. The administration here is filled with grave concern for the fate of the treaty in the United States senate, and thus the condition is in the singular position of being exposed to rejection by both parties on the ground that it is too favorable to each.

Will Impose Fines.
Havana, Jan. 11.—The Lucha, in a long editorial regarding the fines which General Ludlow has recently imposed upon that paper and the Cubano, re-affirms the articles objected to in its own columns and says it will not recognize the authority of the military governor, though it will cheerfully pay the fine when ordered to so by a properly constituted court. General Ludlow asserts that so long as the Lucha continues to re-affirm "malicious false stories," he will continue to impose fines and will increase their amount.

CHICAGO'S FESTIVAL.

EVERY ARRANGEMENT FOR THE EVENT IN MAGNIFICENT STYLE.

Artistic Taste Shown in the Decorations—All North American United in an International Love Feast—Stimulating Speechmaking.

(Special Correspondence.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—The fall festival is planned in true Chicago style—big, labor troubles and local quarrels being not sufficed to kill the enterprise. The rulers of Canada and Mexico will join President McKinley in speechmaking, and under such circumstances it is reasonable to suppose that expression will be given to the pleasantest sentiments and disagreeable things left unsaid. On the occasion of the great banquet the theater of the Auditorium will be decorated with the coats of arms of the United States, Mexico and Canada and the national colors of those countries intertwined. There will also be rows of flags of countries whose representatives are present and a border near the ceiling of coats of arms of the states. Melville E. Stone will be toastmaster, and Dr. Emil G. Hirsch will deliver the invocation. Addresses of welcome on behalf of the United States, Illinois and Chicago will be made by Senator Shelby M. Culbom, Governor Tanner and Mayor Harrison. The following speakers will respond to toasts: President McKinley, President Diaz or his representative, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Secretary Limantour of the Mexican treasury, Secretary Long, Lord Chief Justice Russell of England, General Miles, Admiral Dewey and John S. Russell.

The decorations throughout the city are in excellent taste, and if there are any delighted people who still think that Chicago is deficient in things aesthetic an excellent opportunity is now afforded for a revision of opinion. Conspicuous among the decorations on State street will be the representative groups wrought by Lorado Taft and Charles Mulligan, the sculptors. These groups will adorn the arches to be erected at Lake street just south of the elevated road and at Van Buren street immediately north of the elevated structure. The two groups which have been fashioned by Mr. Taft are from the model, which is representative of the nation's interests on sea and land. It shows the Angel of Peace standing in the prow of a boat and sitting at her feet a laborer, his wife and child. The group is of large size, measuring 16 feet high. One of the groups will ornament each of the two great pillars at the Lake street end of State street. There will be a complete arch at Van Buren street, and the sculpture for this has been prepared on an elaborate scale by Mr. Mulligan. Reclining on the arch on either side are female figures 20 feet in stature representing Peace and Plenty. On one side of the arch at the base will be a group symbolic of industry, with a mechanic with his tools and a farmer with his scythe at the feet of a decorative angel. At the base of the other side of the arch will be a group representing Education, in the center being a decorative angel and on either side of this figure symbolic figures representing the fine arts and science in the guise of a painter with his palette and brush and an old man with a book on his knee and a pen in his hand. These figures will be 16 feet high and 12 feet at the base.

Talks in regard to the relationship of the United States toward Latin-American countries has been stirred up in Mexico by the arrangements for President Diaz's visit, and there may be an attempt to obtain from President McKinley some sort of expression in regard to the attitude of this country. The Mexican Herald says: "If the president of the United States, of whose good will to Mexico and to Central and South America we feel sure, shall take occasion to say to President Diaz that the government of the United States looks with favor on some form of Latin-American confederation with a view to maintaining this vast continent free from European aggression, the telegraphs and cables will flash the tidings of the new entente to every Latin-American capital, and the enemies of the United States persistently at work in all the southern lands will be discomfited. In an hour's private talk at Chicago the two presidents can advance the progress of the peoples of the new world half a century."

While the distinguished speakers will be expected to be interesting, and no doubt they will be, it will be seen that there is an excellent opportunity for somebody to be guilty of an oratorical sin of commission or omission leading to international embarrassments.

It will be interesting to observe also with what grace the astute premier of Canada can elucidate or ignore the Alaskan boundary question, of which he has spoken so frequently and emphatically.

WILSON HAYES.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR.

A Nebraska soldier who served faithfully in the Philippine campaign, never missing a scrap his regiment was engaged in, writes home to his wife:

"I see they are preparing to give us a grand banquet when we return to Omaha. That's all right, but I want to eat before the banquet comes off. And I want it at home. I want it on the table when I get home too. What do I want? Well, here's the list:

"Sirloin steak, rare.
"Hot biscuit and plenty of them, made by you.
"Flour and milk gravy, about three quarts.
"Mashed potatoes.
"Apple sauce.
"Corn on the cob, 11 ears.
"String beans.
"Macaroni and cheese.
"Peaches and cream.
"Ice cream.
"I want you to get all these things ready. We have had plenty to eat since reaching San Francisco, but when things are camp cooked they all taste alike. Cook 'em yourself and don't think because I've been away over a year you can ring in any hired girl cooking on me. When I get through with this bill of fare, I'll be ready to tackle the banquet."—Omaha World-Herald.

A Very Grave Case.

Captain (to man at the wheel)—Another pint apart, quartermaster.
Lady Passenger—How shocking! I must get that captain to sign the pledge. That is the third pint of port he has called for within the last ten minutes. How these captains do drink!—Washington Post.

Her Excuse.

Miss Rider—Poor Dreyfus! How I pity him!
Miss Walker—So do I, dear, but we must look on the bright side of it. The way he's been treated will make such a grand excuse if we can't afford to see the Paris exposition.

A Superstitious Suggestion.

"I would lay the world at your feet," he exclaimed. But she looked at him keenly and returned:
"I see no reason for troubling you, Mr. Doolby. Unless the law of gravity has been unexpectedly repealed the earth is there already."—Washington Star.

A Valid Reason.

Mrs. Chaffee—What! Four cents apiece for these small cabbages? That's a pretty high price.
Grocer—Yes, ma'am, but cabbages are scarce and dear. You see, there are several large cigar factories near here.—Stray Stories.

A Ground For Preference.

"Which do you prefer," said the caller, "gold or whisky?"
"Gold," answered Mrs. Phylis promptly. "It fattens my husband so much when he plays it that he doesn't talk about it in his sleep."—Washington Star.

History Didn't Mention It.

Teacher (annoyed)—Now, children, who can tell me what the long reign of Elizabeth brought about?
Johnny Stowboy (who thinks on simple lines and never reflects)—Umbrellas!—New York World.

Practically Uninjured.

Spiteful Thing—They say Clarence has the golf shoulder. I'm so sorry, dear!
Sweet Young Thing—You needn't be. It doesn't affect his other arm.—Chicago Tribune.

Takes After Mamma.

Little Sister (angrily)—Now, you do what I say.
Little Brother—I won't.
"You won't, eh? Oh, don't I wish we was grown up and you was my husband."—Tit-Bits.

Wanted All the Particulars.

Returned Traveler—Then, after I had left the British museum, I went to Piccadilly.
Interested Young Listener—Did you pick one for me, uncle?—Chicago Tribune.

In Cold Cash.

"I want to see the man who accepted my poem."
"He's out."
"He is?"

TOPPING PIKE'S PEAK

A FEAT WHICH SEEMS TO STIMULATE LYING.

Distinguished People Who Have Posed on the Mountain Top—What the Modern Burro Has Done For Colorado.

(Special Correspondence.)

MANitou, Colo., Oct. 3.—This place is the favorite resort of Colorado and is situated at the foot of Pike's peak. A trip to the summit is the chief aim of every visitor, and there are four ways of accomplishing this end. You can walk up, drive up, ride up on the back of a burro or else take the cogwheel railroad. Each method has its own advocates. There is a fierce controversy which divides the peace of mind of many sojourners here. At meals and on the verandas of the hotels, boarding houses and private residences of Manitou, Colo., Oct. 3.—This place is the favorite resort of Colorado and is situated at the foot of Pike's peak. A trip to the summit is the chief aim of every visitor, and there are four ways of accomplishing this end. You can walk up, drive up, ride up on the back of a burro or else take the cogwheel railroad. Each method has its own advocates. There is a fierce controversy which divides the peace of mind of many sojourners here. At meals and on the verandas of the hotels, boarding houses and private residences of Manitou, you hear the matter discussed. The question at issue is the identity of the individual who has walked to the top of the peak in the fastest time. There is nothing in all the world which so stimulates lying as does the execution of this climbing feat. Every one who has traveled the difficult and dangerous mountain path claims to have made the best time. The strife will doubtless never be settled until congress awards a series of medals and appoints a special commission to come out here and officially record the achievements of some of these pedestrians. The supreme court might make the presentations, but unless something like this is done the trouble will appear during each successive season.

ADMIRAL SCHLEY ON PIKE'S PEAK.

This is not, however, the whole story. The fat man has a record of his own, as has also the fat woman. Then there are fond and loving parents who delight in loudly advertising the performances of their young sons and daughters. Then there are aged men and women who are not without pretensions of their own. Some feats indeed border on the unique. The other day an editor of a Kansas newspaper started up the trail. In the distance one might have thought him alone, but he was not. The winds that howled across his path did not disturb him. Neither did the bleating of an occasional mountain sheep or the sight of some bird on the wing that paused in its flight to gaze upon the unusual event. This newspaper man trudged along contentedly, for in his arms he carried his 8-month-old baby. The couple reached the summit safely. All hail to this nineteenth century martyr!

Another way to get to the top of the mountain is on the back of a burro. This animal is patient and stolid. In the city of Denver there is a public park, and in it are two statues, one representing an Indian chief and the other an American scout on a bucking pony. To this group should be added a third one—trying his burden of mules, a supplements and supplies. He helped to make Colorado, and but for him the Pike's peak railroad would not exist. To ride on the back of an obstinate beast to the top of the mountain is a never to be forgotten event. The impressions made upon the muscles of the body are more enduring than the remembrance of the scenery and the sky.

After all, the most satisfactory trip is by means of the cogwheel railroad which pushes its way up the mountain side. This undertaking constitutes one of the marvelous engineering triumphs of the century. The enterprise is a tribute to a group of farseeing capitalists. One of them was the late Roswell P. Flower, and among his associates were R. B. Cable of the Rock Island railroad and G. S. Simmons, a Wisconsin banker.

The roadbed is solid, and the rails are heavy. The center of the track is occupied by a steel frame indented at intervals of an inch or more. The whole structure reminds one of that ladder which appeared to Jacob in a dream, for man's angel, the locomotive, appears to ascend into the very heavens and to descend again to the earth.

In going up the locomotive pushes the car and in coming down precedes it. Underneath the engine there is a cogged wheel which revolves at the motion of the piston rod. The cogs fit securely into the niches in the steel frame in the center of the track. Powerful brakes hold the car, and an accident is almost impossible. None has ever occurred, and no passenger has ever been even slightly injured.

Many prominent people have come to Pike's peak. Last spring Admiral Schley was the guest of the citizens of Colorado Springs. He was accompanied by ex-Senator Manderson, now the attorney of the Union Pacific. The admiral was presented with a miniature copy of the Brooklyn made of dollars, and he gave it to J. G. Hiesman of Manitou, who placed it on exhibition in the hotel on Pike's peak. Mr. Hiesman photographed the distinguished sailor while sitting upon a certain rock which has now been called "Schley rock."

Later in the season William J. Bryan came up in the train, and as he was entering the car a lady from Arkansas approached and shook hands with him. She said she made it a practice to read all of his speeches, and to this the colonel replied pleasantly: "I don't see how you can do anything else. It must take all your time." Mr. Bryan was also photographed while sitting on Schley rock, and, looking down a depth of some 2,000 feet, he said to those about him, "I hope I shall never get any nearer to the bottomless pit."

The top of the mountain is about an acre in extent, and this surface is very rocky. There is a small hotel, as well as a building, erected under the direction of General William B. Hazen, devoted to the uses of the local weather bureau. Near by is the grave of Kate O'Keefe, the daughter of the late Sergeant O'Keefe, a former weather observer.

The view from the summit of Pike's peak surpasses description. It is a scene of changing skies and ever varying light effects. For some hours the sun will shine upon a scene of verdant beauty, at which time the country for miles about can be clearly seen. Smoke from the fires of smelters, the rock formations in the Garden of the Gods, extensive cattle ranges, distant mining camps and a host of other objects go to fill up this panorama of nature, while the visitor is charmed by the rarity of the air. Suddenly the temperature lowers, snow begins to fall, and the ground is white. Far below, where the sun is still shining, the habitations of men are shut off from view.

Half way up the railroad there is a station, and near by is a hotel or resting place for weary mortals. There are also a number of summer cottages here, one occupied by Judge Williams and a number owned by parties from Kansas City. We saw a man walking around who, we learned from a friend, was a distinguished professor in a German university. He is spending his vacation here for the purpose of forming a collection of the flowers and grasses of Colorado.

As the car is about to start a man approaching middle life enters and distributes a paper slip to each passenger. On this you are requested to write your name and address, and then the slips are collected. The man to whom they are given is Thomas B. Wilson, the publisher of The Pike's Peak News, a most interesting newspaper. The office of this publication is about half way up the railroad, and it is said to be the highest printing office in point of altitude in the world. Mr. Wilson owns a complete outfit and in the person of his wife has a worthy helper. When he is absent, she takes entire charge of the enterprise, giving out the slips, setting up the type, working the press and selling the papers. Her name is Grace T. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson leaves the train when it reaches his establishment. Then he and his force arrange the names, and the list is set up in type. The cover of The Pike's Peak News is adorned with a colored illustration of a sunrise scene. Inside there are stories and cuts relating to the peak and Manitou, so that all that is necessary is to insert the names of the visitors. This is done while the train is climbing to the top, and upon the return trip Mr. Wilson delivers the papers, in which the name of each person appears, for a nominal sum.

In speaking with Editor Wilson recently regarding his paper that gentleman said: "The idea of publishing a paper on Pike's peak did not originate with me. Formerly another man issued a paper at the foot of the mountain, but the names of the passengers appeared the following day and copies of the paper were sent by mail. It occurred to me that it would be a good thing to publish and deliver papers to tourists on the day of their visit. About three years ago I started my paper, and since then we have printed somewhere between 15,000 and 20,000 copies."

One of the most interesting items elicited from Mr. Wilson was the account of daily toboggan rides. As he lives at his printing establishment, it is necessary to go down in the morning and meet the early train, and this journey is made on what is known as a toboggan. This conveyance consists of a board with a seat and brake, and underneath is a steel contrivance which enables it to slide down the framework in the center of the track. Flying down the terrific grades and around the many curves of the railroad furnishes one of the most exciting and thrilling sports in this world.

A few years ago there were at least 20 of these toboggans, but the frequent number of accidents caused this number to be reduced to about a dozen. As you come down at the rate of a mile a minute a small pebble, a twig of wood or a most minute obstruction may throw you off the track and perhaps hurl your unfortunate body down some yawning precipice.

Alice That Sing.

If you were to walk along a certain street in London, past a certain bird store, you would see this sign in the window: "Singing mice a specialty." If you should go inside the store and talk to the fancier, he would tell you that such mice were very rare, and that his store was the only one in London where they were kept. When they are scarcer than usual, they sometimes bring as much as ten dollars apiece in our money. These mice are pliable and quite tame and seem like ordinary mice, but when they sing you feel they are quite extraordinary, for it seems very strange indeed to hear such sounds coming from mice. It is not a tune exactly, but sort of a piping sound, pleasant to hear and really rather musical. Some people say it is a peculiar kind of lung disease that makes them make this strange music; but this fancier says that it is a natural gift with the mice, and that there is only one kind that has the gift. He also says that he is the only person who knows anything about these singing mice. He has had some strange requests for these queer little animals. One lady asked him for a mouse, that could sing "God Save the Queen," and said she was willing to give £10 for it, amounting to about $48.40. When told there was no mouse that could oblige her she went away quite disgusted. A tin player had bought a couple of mice, and one day returned them, complaining that they did not keep together well when they sang.

An Ancient Office Vacant.

The ancient office of "headman and executioner of the queen" has just become vacant through the death at the Tower of London of old Stephen Sweeney, who, in addition to his other titles, bore that of "Yeoman Gaele to Her Majesty." He was a very picturesque figure in his costume of the sixteenth century, consisting of long scarlet tunic, slashed with black velvet, loose red knickerbockers, red stockings, with ruffles of red, white and blue ribbon at the knees and upon the low shoes.

BOER COURTSHIP.

Needle Mark on the Candle Limits the Women's Stay.

Philadelphia Record: "While here," said the traveler in the Transvaal, "I saw how the Boers come courting. The girl was the daughter of my employer. The young man dashed up to the house on horseback, wearing new clothes, with an ostrich feather in his hat. He made his fine horse prance and caper before the house and descended. Then he gave the lines to one of the Hottentots standing near and walked up and down in front of the windows of the house, well knowing that the eyes of his sweetheart were peeping through the blinds at him. Then he strutted into the house and first shook hands with 'Tante,' the mother, and said 'Guten tag' (good day). The same he did with 'Oom,' the father, and then at last spoke to the girl and her sisters and brothers. Oom said only 'Stee' (take a seat), and then there was complete silence, which lasted until the bowl of coffee was brought in. Then each in turn spoke a few words. Oom asked how everything was at the 'huis' (home), and then we heard all about the health of each one in the family, how the cattle and the crops were doing, etc. All the time we were drinking coffee. At last the suitor rose and handed his chosen bride the 'Lachergoot' (confectionery), which she, blushing and laughing, accepted. This was the critical moment, for if she had refused the gift that would have ended the courtship. Now there was gayer talk, until all but the two left the room, for it was the right of the suitor to remain in the front room alone with her of his choice. But so that he should not stay too long, 'Tante,' according to custom, stepped up to the wax candle, and made a mark on it with a needle, saying that the visit might last until the candle burnt thus far. This was a command that the most lovesick swain dare not disregard."

IRISH TRANSVAAL BRIGADE.

An Officer Tells How They Bagged the Irish Fusiliers.

The first authentic intelligence concerning the Irish Transvaal brigade comes in a letter to an Irish physician in London from Patrick Gillingham, the Transvaal's Irish delegate to the '98 centenary celebration in Dublin and now commissariat superintendent of the Boer army, says the New York World. The writer describes the delight of the Irish brigade on crossing the border into British territory. He says:

"We are 1,800 hardy, resolute men, armed with the best weapons money could procure, our bandoliers bursting with Mauser cartridges, and, though sporting none of the millinery uniform business, all are dressed in the same serviceable style, with just a bunch of green ribbon to mark the color of the true."

"Major John McBride carried a real Irish flag into the enemy's country. When General Joubert ordered us to occupy Majuba, the boys were in great humor. Then they mounted Majuba with a ringing cheer, and word was passed for one more cheer for another Fontenoy. Sure enough, we had a small Fontenoy very soon, for in the first engagement we had with the English we took a couple of hundred prisoners, and they have been coming in just like old friends every day since."

"It was a lot of Dublin fusiliers we bagged first, and as we brought them to our camp the boys gave them a pretty talking to. Most of them looked awfully ashamed of themselves, but some looked as black as night when they saw our green flag waving above the thousands of rifles as they were led to prison. Some of the officers were very nice too. One, as I am looking a man as you would like to see, could not keep the tears from spurring from his eyes at being caught like that. He was every inch a gentleman, and we did our best to make him and the likes of him comfortable."

"Plenty of the Dubliners were glad to be up, and safe, and we have good hopes of most of them. But even the most desperate could not do anything else than surrender; our firing was too deadly. The fun of the thing is that our men were trained to shoot by the mining companies, when Cecil Rhodes and Joey Chamberlain were organizing the Jamestown raid."

Speaking of the green flag, Gillingham says: "The Boers are quite fond and proud of our harp. 'There goes the Irish harp!' they cry. 'Give the English plenty of music!' And we do. They dance duely to the tune we give them."

BILLIONS OF STORED EGGS.

Result of an Attempt by Packers to Corner the Market.

One of the most peculiar situations in regard to the egg supply ever known exists in the United States today, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The situation is the result of storing eggs in an attempt to control the market. There are liable to be two results. One is that the people of the country will have cold storage eggs foisted upon them as the new laid product. The other is that the people who attempted to "corner" the market will suffer heavy losses.

The beginning of the "cornering" effort dates back to last summer. At that time, it is said, the Chicago packers evolved the scheme of buying up all the eggs that could possibly be gathered together and storing them until the supply became scarce. As is usual in schemes, it was anticipated that the scarcity would send the price sky high. Then the stored eggs were to be unloaded on the market, and a fortune was to be made for the packers. It is figured that 7,000,000 cases, each case containing 30 dozen eggs, were stored away. To the industrious hen, whose capacity is one egg a day, this is an exceedingly large amount. The scheme to control the market fell through. There was no call for stored eggs, and the packers began to lie awake nights thinking. At present the hens are beginning to lay fresh eggs. These are coming into the market, and no one wants the stored eggs. A little figuring will show how enormous the loss will be. There are 7,000,000 cases of eggs, or 210,000,000 dozen, stored throughout the country. These were bought up at 15 cents a dozen. The present price of eggs a dozen outside of Cleveland is on an average 4 cents less a dozen than the price at which the stored eggs were bought. This will mean a loss of about $8,400,000 to the packers. It is conjectured that there are 6,000 cases of the stored eggs in Cleveland. The loss there will also be very large.

It is reported that the packers in the vicinity of Cleveland have a way out of the dilemma. It is said that next summer, when eggs are shipped to Cleveland from outlying towns, the stored eggs will be mixed with fresh ones, and in that way the old product will be sold to the unsuspecting public.

Weird Weapons to Hurt Death Among Boers.

Inventors are now keeping the British war office busy with ideas for and models of weird and wonderful weapons for hurling death and destruction among the Boers, says the Chicago Tribune. One genius suggests the use of snuff shells. By discharging big shells filled with pungent snuff he thinks that the soldiers of the enemy would be all set to sneezing and that while they were so engaged bayonet charges might be made upon them with impunity. Boiling hot water is suggested as a substitute for other projectiles, while a third man is of the opinion that shells should be filled with some chemical compound which would on bursting discharge great volumes of asphyxiating gas among the enemy.

The Schoolboy's Footscript.

When Dr. Temple (now Archbishop of Canterbury) was the headmaster of Rugby, a boy came up before him for some breach of discipline, and the facts seemed so against the lad that he was in imminent danger of being expelled. He had a defence, but being neither clear headed nor fluent in the presence of the head-master, he could not make it clear. He therefore wrote home to his father, detailing at length his position and his explanation. His father very wisely thought the best thing he could do was to send the boy's letter as it stood to Dr. Temple, merely asking him to overlook any familiarity of expression. Apparently the father had not turned over the page and seen his son's postscript, for there Dr. Temple found the following words: "If I could explain it would be all right, for though Temple is a beast, he is a just beast." The bishop, in telling this story, is accustomed to say that it was one of the greatest compliments he has ever received in his life.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

A Different Sandwich For Each Day. The Latest In Bed Decoration. Artistic Curtain Hanging.

When luncheon is an everyday affair, it must be varied or it soon palls. In the mere matter of sandwiches there is such infinite variety that one could have a different one for every day in the year if "so disposed." There are the various meat sandwiches chopped fine and well seasoned—the sliced meat sandwiches, the meat carved as thin as a wafer, and also well seasoned with salt, pepper and a little mustard if desired; then cheese sandwiches, plain or in combination, with celery or nuts. Egg sandwiches are always appetizing, whether made of a little scrambled egg left over from breakfast or boiled eggs sliced or of the yolks of hard boiled eggs rubbed to a paste and seasoned with melted butter, a little mustard, salt and pepper or a little mayonnaise dressing. In vegetable sandwiches there is also infinite variety. Raw tomatoes sliced, seasoned and laid between the slices of bread are tasty; finely chopped cabbage with boiled dressing makes a sandwich not to be despised, while lettuce, nasturtium, chopped celery and water cress are all good and wholesome. All kinds of fish can be made into a mince or paste, with a little lemon juice added. A kind of salad makes a sandwich, or the salad may be put up in jelly glasses or glass fruit cans. Swiss cheese with mustard is another good combination, as are also olives cut in small pieces and covered with mayonnaise. For the daintiest kind of a sandwich try the potted partridge stuffed with truffles.

Artistic Curtain Hanging.

In hanging the colored silk or cotton curtains a better result is got with small plaits than with the old fashioned box plaits. A cluster of five small side plaits is sewed together where the plait is formed, so that they stand out the depth of the plaits. Along the sides the fringe is then sewed close to the edge or across the bottom. The edge of the fringe should fall just above the edge of the curtain. The loops to hold back the curtains are usually of the cable cord, about half an inch in diameter. When it is preferred not to use rings with white sash curtains, they may be made with three-fourths of an inch heading, below which is a shirring to slip the brass through. To hang the curtains across in French style they must first be lapped to cross as far as is desired, and then a cotton rope is sewed on, through which the rod is passed. This method of draping calls for a curtain fully two yards long, in order to allow for the droop where it is looped back.

Ready For Housewives.

Among the most recent and helpful of labor saving devices may be reckoned the pictorial label which is destined to take the place of the hand written labels which used to distinguish the different preserves and jellies stored in the fruit closet from each other and which took so long to prepare. The pictorial label is simplicity itself. The colored representation of the fruit indicated explains its object and purpose. There is nothing to confuse the eye of the housekeeper as she runs it over the shelves of her preserve closet in search of a particular fruit. Some of the designs show evidence of a high degree of artistic merit as well. The labels can be used but once, but they can be purchased very cheaply and come all gummed and ready to attach.—Boston Journal.

Cold Compress For Sore Throat.

A slight sore throat, if caused by cold, may often be completely cured in a single night by dipping a large handkerchief in cold water and, after slightly squeezing it, binding it around the throat, first folding it to a proper width. Then place a piece of oilskin over the handkerchief, in order to preserve the moisture, and, lastly, bind over all a piece of thick flannel or a clean woolen stocking, fastening it securely with a safety pin.—Lady.

Bed Decoration.

It is quite the thing to decorate the bed and bedstead these days. The il-

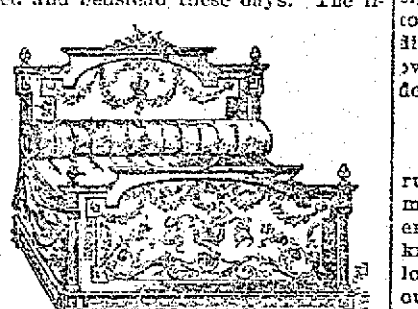

Illustration shows a pretty combination. This style may be followed with cretonne or other figured material.

When You Haven't Ice.

People who for any reason haven't ice on which to keep butter hard can do it quite effectually in this way: Do not put the butter in cold water, but put the butter dish into another dish or pan of cold water and cover the butter dish with an old napkin or a piece of cheesecloth, allowing the corners to dip over into the water. As the water evaporates from the under dish more must be added.

How It Happened.

Little 4-year-old Harold met with a very serious accident, having both a broken arm and a broken leg, in consequence. When he was able to talk, his father questioned him as to how it happened.

"Oh," he said, "I went up stairs and there was a window open. I looked out, then I hollered out, and then I lost followed the holler."

Extraordinary Marriage Vow.

Short Stories Magazine: An English rural clergyman says that in his parish it was quite the fashion for the man, when giving the ring in the marriage ceremony, to say to the woman: "With my body I thee wash up, and with all my humble goods I thee and thou." He said the women were better up in this part of the service than the men. One day, however, a bride startled him by promising, in what she supposed to be the language of the prayer book, to take her husband "to ave and old from this day forth" for better horse, for richer power, in sickness health, to love cherries and to bay." What meaning this extraordinary vow conveyed to the woman's own mind, the incumbent said, baffled him to conjecture.

A Cat and Coon Combination

"One of the strangest cases of animal friendship I ever had eyes on," said a Baronne street business man to the New Orleans Times-Democrat man. "May be seen at a big machine shop out on Bayou St. John. A few weeks ago the engineer caught a good-sized coon—I mean a coon of the four-legged variety—crawling about the loft. How the beast got there nobody knows, and at first he showed fight and plenty of it. However, the engineer is one of those men who seem to have a mysterious natural power over wild animals, and in a few days his prisoner was eating out of his hand, coming at his call and going around loose, as tame as a dog. That would be sufficiently wonderful itself, but it was nothing to the friendship that soon developed between the newcomer and Tom, the pet cat of the establishment. Tom is a monstrous black-and-white feline and such a talented scrapper that he has frequently licked full-grown dogs. The first time he met the coon there was a battle royal, which impartial spectators declare was a draw. At any rate, it must have given the pair a mutual respect for one another, for they immediately agreed to a protocol and have since entered into a full treaty of peace, including an offensive and defensive alliance against all other cats or coons found on the premises. At present they sleep curled up in one furry ball, eat out of the same dish and play together like a couple of kittens. One of the coon's favorite tricks is to throw his paws around the cat's neck and make the latter drag him around the yard. It is a strange sight and I could hardly believe my eyes when I first saw them. I pity any quadruped that attempts to tackle that combination."

Lord Curzon has taken a solid initiative in frontier policy. The British garrisons in the hills on the northwest frontier are to be mostly withdrawn. Chitral is to be merely a post of observation. A great effort is to be made to organize the hill tribes as militia under British officers. This policy will save expense and conciliate the tribesmen.

There are some places where a man's height counts against him. One of these is India, where orders have been issued that no officers will be appointed to Goorkha regiments who exceed five feet ten inches in height or who measure less than thirty-eight inches around the chest. Officers over a certain height are considered out of place among the squat Goorkhas, and the smart appearance of a battalion of these sturdy little warriors on parade has always been a marked incongruity in the eyes of the British leaders. On active service, too, a tall British officer in a Goorkha battalion is a conspicuous figure for the enemy's marksmen.

NOVEL CLUB IN PARIS.

Chicago's Absent Citizens Form a Parisian Organizational Club.

While club life in Paris has not yet reached the popularity it enjoys in London, New York and Chicago, it still plays an important part in the social life of the men of the fashionable world.

What may be considered as the most unique club in the French capital is an organization which has neither clubhouse nor membership fees and which prospers and records no end of pleasure to the men belonging to it—the Ca y est club—which prominent Chicago men residing in Paris for business or pleasure have formed. Much mystery is caused by the name, a French idiomatic phrase to which the Chicago men have given their own translation of "Get There."

And indeed it is an appropriate name, for all of the men of the Ca y est have not only "got there" themselves in a wonderful fashion, but in most cases have helped Chicago to "get there" with them. Good company, good humor, good will, are the characteristics of the clubmen who meet daily at the Chatham hotel for a cozy talk, a quiet game of cards and "refreshments."

The club as an organization is exceedingly patriotic, not only as an American institution, but as a Chicago organization. The Paris correspondence of the Chicago Tribune writes there is a celebration in Chicago, the Ca y est celebrates in Paris, and Chicago news is read and discussed with as much interest as if the members were gazing at the lake from the broad windows of the Chicago club or glancing down Michigan avenue from the smoking room of the Culmet.

Only a certain select few are members. The club is hospitable and extends its hospitality to passing friends, but they must be good friends, tried and trusted friends to have the good luck to be asked to "come down to the Chatham" at the hour of the reunion.

Mr. George Dunlap of Chicago is president of the Ca y est and Mr. Jack Cutler vice president and Mr. George Armour an honorary member. The membership list is small, a dozen or more names only being inscribed on the permanent roll. But the size is no drawback, and far away from the great city which calls them sons the members of the Ca y est are united with the metropolis by a common bond of sympathy. Such is the Chicago club of Paris.

BATTLE OF ELANDSLAAGTE.

Incidents of the Great Fight With the Boers.

The correspondent of the London Chronicle tells this little incident of Elandslaagte. He says: "The victory was ours. We had gained a story and muddy little hills strewn with the bodies of dead and wounded peasants, clerks, lawyers and other kinds of men. Most were from Johannesburg. Nearly all spoke English like their native language. In one corner on the slope of the hill toward their little camp and wagons I counted 11 dead together. In one of the tents were three dead men, all killed by the same shell, apparently while asleep. Yet I do not think there were more than 30 actually killed among the ranks in all. It is true that darkness fell rapidly and the rain was blinding, but I was nearly two hours on the ground moving about. The wounded lay very thick, groaning and appealing for help. As I was coming down I nearly trod on the upturned white face of an old white bearded man. He was lying quite silent, with a kind of dignity. We asked who he was. He said: 'I am Koek, the father of Judge Koek. No, I am not the commandant. He is the commandant.' But the old man was wrong. He himself had been in command, though instead of fighting he had read the Bible and prayed. One bullet had passed through his shoulder, another through his groin. So he lay still and read no more. Near him was a boy with a hand just a mixture of shreds and bones and blood. But he, too, was very quiet and only asked for a handkerchief to bind it together. Others were gradually dying." Many were found still alive.

Sledding for Divorces.

Separations Will be Hard to Obtain Under New Law.

The Commission Appointed by Governor Bushnell Has Its Report Before the Assembly.

If the assembly adopts the report of the commission appointed by Gov. Bushnell to codify the divorce laws of the state, and the report is enacted into law, it will be far from easy thereafter for a disgruntled wife or husband to throw their marital vows over their shoulders. The commission, as noted at the time of its appointment, is composed of Gen. Aquila Wiley of Wooster, Frank P. Richter of Hamilton and W. L. Parmenter of this city, and in the voluminous report of its findings, which has just been made public, some sweeping changes are suggested, in divorce laws especially. The records at the court house show that Allen county is not far behind the leaders in the matter of divorces, based on the population, and that the situation is growing worse, as indicated by the start along that line made in the first ten days of the new year. Five cases in which a divorce is asked for have been filed with either the probate court or the county clerk, for the year 1900, and the allegations cover about all the grounds which the law holds as applicable.

The aim of the commission is to reduce applications for divorce to a minimum by erecting obstructions not easily overcome. They recommend that no divorce be granted for any cause arising prior to the residence of the petitioner in the state which was not a cause for divorce in the state where the cause originated. It also shuts off the practice of coming into the state for a year, for the purpose of gaining a residence with the intention of divorce, by providing that applicants for divorce, from cause arising out of the state, must reside in Ohio for two years before the suit is brought and have a bona fide intention of becoming a permanent resident. If the cause arises in the state the applicant for divorce must have resided in Ohio one year, with the intention of a permanent residence.

With regard to service and other matters the commission recommends that the defendant must be personally served with process if in the state, or with personal notice, duly authorized, if out of the state, unless appearance is entered; or the court shall authorize, after diligent inquiry for a year, notice by publication. No divorce should be granted solely upon default, or solely upon the admissions in the pleadings, nor except upon trial in open session. After divorce either party may marry again, but in cases where notice has been given by publication only, and the defendant has not appeared, no divorce should become final until six months after trial and decision. The grounds for divorce may be adultery, extreme cruelty, habitual drunkenness or the confirmed habit of intoxication, whether arising from alcoholic liquors or drugs, conviction of felony, with sentence of imprisonment, and continuous desertion for a period to be fixed by the legislature of the state in which the suit originates.

Sentence is Given Rex

Who Was Arrested For Abandoning His Children.

A Fine of $200 and Six Months Imprisonment Were Imposed—Cases in Mayor's Court.

Concerning Martin Rex, who was captured here by patrolman Harry O'Brien on a warrant furnished by Humane Office Ware, of Toledo, a Toledo paper says:

"In Justice Lelet's court this morning Martin Rex was convicted of the most shameful neglect of his family, and, as a punishment, he was sentenced to spend six months in the workhouse and pay a fine of $200 and costs. The court said that it was one of the worst cases that he had ever heard of, and that the defendant deserved a life sentence. The trial is unfit for public print. Among other things, it was stated that Rex left his family and went over into Canada, where he paid a great deal of attention to an orphan girl. Information regarding his doings finally reached Toledo, and Humane Agent Ware and others wrote to the Canadian officials that Rex had a family here. Just as he was about to marry the Canadian girl, the officials and populace drove him out of town.

"Rex has two children that are under 10. One daughter who is over 16 years of age, although a cripple, earns a little money for the support of her mother and the younger members of the family.

"The sentence imposed on Rex is the full extent allowed by the law."

MAYOR'S COURT.

A man giving his name as James McManus was arraigned this morning on a charge of petit larceny. He pleaded not guilty and the case will be tried. McManus is alleged to have stolen a $5 bank note. He was in Pat Holleran's saloon on the south side when Jack Holleran accidentally dropped the bill in question. A railroad man picked up the bill and was in the act of handing it to Holleran when McManus, it is alleged, grabbed the "William" and run away with it.

John Shellabarger, an old offender, was arraigned this morning for drunkenness. He was fined $1.00 which he could not pay.

Three strangers giving their names as John Gorman, John Collier and James McGruder, were sentenced to three days each in the city work house for vagrancy.

TIDINGS

From the Front at Last,

But they Only Bring Sadness to Many Hearts.

Newton W. Reese, a Lima Boy, Serving in the Fourth Cavalry Lost His Life in November.

After many long, weary weeks of anxiety, tidings have finally been received concerning one of the brave Lima boys who went to the Philippines last summer to serve his country under the stars and stripes in that foreign land. After more than two months of anxiety that has not been relieved in many homes by even the briefest message, word comes through official channels, concerning one of the absent heroes. But the message brings no welcome tidings. It casts a gloom of sadness over one home, by confirming the fears that have been entertained by many during the long weeks of silence.

The victim was Newton W. Reese, the oldest son of Amos Reese, a well known expressman, and although his death is reported as having occurred on the 15th day of last November, General Otis made no report of it to the war department until last Monday and the department gave out a list day before yesterday including the name Reese was one of the several Lima boys who were assigned to the Fourth cavalry, under the late Gen. Lawton and Gen. (Mis) report shows that he, together with a comrade named Albert E. Halter, both of troop I, Fourth cavalry, were drowned, on the date above mentioned. The report states "Drowned, Rioagno" and it could not be ascertained today whether "Rioagno" is the name of a stream, lake or village. The report mentions no details of the casualty but it is supposed that Reese lost his life as many other American soldiers have in the Philippines, by reason of the improper methods resorted to in getting the troops across the rivers of the Luzon Island.

Three of Amos Reese's sons enlisted for service in the regular army, during last May or early in June, when the Government had a recruiting station in this city. Two of the boys, Newton and Henry, were sent to the station at Fresno, Cal., for service in the Philippines, and Frank Reese was sent to H. Washington, Md., for service in the artillery. The latter is still at H. Washington and Henry is at his home in this city, having been returned from Fresno, where he was rejected when the troops were examined before being sent aboard the transports.

On June 28, Newton Reese left San Francisco on board the transport Sheridan, which arrived at Manila a month later. He was accompanied by the following other Lima boys, whose parents are anxiously waiting letters from: Edgar B. Beall, Albert Lee, Edward and William Linderman, Homer Vernon, George Jennings, Frederick Slamb, Thomas Chambers, John A. Parker, Rollie Jameson, Franklin P. Morris, Frank, Agie, Copeland, Ridenour, Fenstermaker, Daniels, Morris, Linney, McHenry, Tobin and Ernest Butte.

With Charles H. Shappell, of the south side, as manager, a local company will handle the total output of the Quilna Brewery's artificial ice plant during the coming season. The plant will manufacture 75 or 80 tons of ice every day and the company expects to dispose of every pound of the output to regular patrons. Mr. Shappell, the manager is a thoroughly competent young business man and the success of the enterprise is assured.

"Grasp All and Lose All."

Many people are so intent on "grasping all" that they lose strength of nerves, appetite, digestion, health. Fortunately, however, these may be restored by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which has put many a business man on the road to success by giving him good digestion, strong nerves and a clear brain. It does the same thing for weak and tired women.

TRAIN TELESCOPE

A wreck which caused a delay in traffic on the C. H. & D. occurred on the Cincinnati division, at Pottsdam early yesterday morning. No. 93 south bound freight ran into a local. Several cars were more or less broken up and the engine had its pilot knocked off. Conductor Art Smith and engineer Charlie Reid, both of Lima, were on 93, but neither were injured. The accident was due to the fog and it is claimed that the caboose of the local, which was standing on the main track did not have a flag out. The engine was sent to Cincinnati for repairs.

BRINS OF RECOLLECTIONS.

But little remains of the old Dietrich property, only the foundation and a few uprights being left to complete the demolition of the once bustling hostelry. Many of the railroad boys who have been running on the road for years past, have a fund of good stories and jokes connected with the social gathering in the famous bar room, and as one of the boys remarked during the tearing down process, if those smoken old rafters could speak, the tales they would tell, would furnish mighty good reading.

NO BLACKLIST ON C. &amp; E.

The Chicago & Erie has adopted a new system with reference to giving former employees letters of discharge. Hereafter the employee putting the service of the company will be given a personal letter of recommendation, and the former method of addressing such letters to other roads is abandoned. It was thought such a course on the part of the Erie officials would demonstrate more clearly than anything else to their employees that such a thing as a "blacklist" did not exist on that road.

NOTES.

A report is current that the Northern Ohio division of the Lake Erie & Western, extending from Akron, Ohio, westerly to Delphos, a distance of about 150 miles, is to be given over to the use of the Erie, which is controlled by J. Pierpont Morgan. It is said that this division of the Lake Erie & Western will not be of any especial advantage to the Lake Shore, the lines of which cover that territory already.

A message over the Pittsburg line this morning stated that Chicago is enveloped in a fog so dense that it rivals the pall which so frequently

DEMOCRACY

Must Reunite Notwithstanding the Silver Plank.

Congressman R. B. Gordon Says in an Interview That the Eastern Gold Bugs Must Line-up.

Congressman R. B. Gordon of this district, in an interview with the New York World is quoted as follows: "I believe the party can be reunited, even across the money chasm. One of the fundamental causes of the discussion in our party is that the rank and file of Democracy will not, like the rank and file of the Republican party, vote against principle through a sense of political loyalty. The east, I believe, will be forced to yield to the majority and come to terms. There are new issues coming to the front upon which the Democratic party can fight in common cause. The east has refused to support the policy of the west, its platform and nominee, principally because it did not like the free-silver plank. So long as this spirit prevails the Democratic party will be weakened."
